FileMind synthetic AI study notes. A Query represents the information a token is seeking. A Key represents what information a token offers. Query-Key dot products determine attention weights. Values contain token content, combined by a weighted sum. Self-attention compares tokens in the same sequence. These notes are original teaching material for the competition demo, not a published paper.